

MISS YOU...

Bright and Silver
Shinier than the rarest of metals
Louder and hotter than a jet
I remember how you refused to boot from usb.

When I see you I remember the pain we've put each other through,
You loved being stubborn as hell.

From Tiger to Leopard to Sorbet Leopard you were never one to be happy
Lubuntu, Debian, Fienix, and Adelie
You were never happy.

I replaced your hard drives with SSDs
Gave you a new wifi card,
Yet you stayed sluggish like a snail.
I wanted to give up on you many times,
You were just too much.

I never let go.
I was more stubborn than you

Until I left.

Left you sitting for months,
Lifeless.

But something drew me back to you
I gave you power.

You took years to start up
Pretended to have a faulty graphics card
Only for you to magically work.

Suddenly
You turned into cookaroni.

Not even saying goodbye...

Fly

One can try and do everything in the world
Doesn't mean one should.

Sometimes one forgets about the wider scheme of things
Pressures themselves to be better and better
To almost reach perfection.

Yet is one happy?

Is one doing this for themselves or because one thinks they need to do it for someone else.

Does one enjoy this?

One does not enjoy this.

One should look back

Take a break

Breathe.

Feeling better?

Good.

Don't do this for other people
Enjoy your life

Let the worries go.

Ignore what other people want

Do what you want

fly.

Go fly.

Leave it all behind.

Juan